

Life. Well Crafted.

City of Hickory Public Art Work Inventory

1. "The Story" by James Barnhill is a bronze sculpture depicting a mother reading to a child. It is located at the front of the Patrick Beaver Library. It was dedicated in 1998 in honor of Murray Tate. PAC 1999.1

2. "The Tower of Miracles" by Mary Rose Carroll is a stone obelisk with metal bas reliefs. The sculpture was commissioned for the millennium to commemorate the construction of an emergency polio hospital in 1944. The sculpture was dedicated as part of a three-day celebration in 2000 that included a polio survivor's reunion. PAC2000.2

3. "Pulling Sweet Potato Plants" by Ivey Hayes is an acrylic painting. It was purchased in 2001 and hangs in the Ridgeview Library. PAC 2001.3

4. "Boy and Girl" by Ivey Hayes is a watercolor. It was purchased in 2001 and hangs in the Ridgeview Library. PAC 2001.4

5. "Ukama" by Godfrey Kurari is a carved springstone sculpture that represents family unity and community. The sculpture was purchased in 2002 and dedicated to the citizens of Ridgeview as part of the dedication of the new Ridgeview Recreation Center. PAC 2002.5

6. "The Natural" by Gary Price is a bronze numbered edition sculpture of a small boy with a baseball glove. This sculpture was dedicated in 2003 as part of the dedication of the Highland Recreation Center at Stanford Park. This sculpture was purchased through a private fund-raising effort and is dedicated to Danny Thompson, the former Parks and Recreation director. PAC 2003.6

7. "Stone Souls Rising" by Julia Stout is a free form steel sculpture that currently is located at the Patrick Beaver Memorial Library. This sculpture was leased for a year and purchased by the Public Art Commission in 2003. PAC 2003.7

8. "The Game" by Dean Curfman is a steel sphere, ten feet in diameter that depicts a segmented soccer ball. It is located at the Henry Fork Regional Soccer Facility and purchased through a private fund-raising effort and dedicated in 2004. PAC 2004.8

9. "Whisper Bench" by Jim Gallucci is a powder coated steel bench. It is currently located along the sidewalk between the Science Center and Patrick Beaver Library. PAC 2004.9

10. "Forever in Bloom" by Dean Curfman is a steel representational piece. It is located inside at City Hall. This sculpture was part of a temporary art exhibit at City Hall in 2005. PAC 2005.10

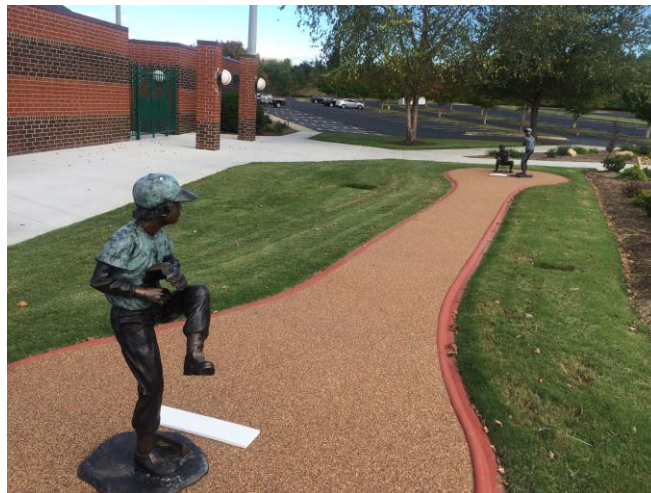

11. "Flexible" by Dean Curfman is an aluminum abstract piece. It is currently located outside of City Hall. This sculpture was part of a temporary art exhibit at City Hall in 2005. PAC 2005.11

12. "Wheel of Time" by Dean Curfman is aluminum construction and was commissioned by the West Hickory/Westmont Neighborhood Association. It is located on Hwy 321 and 13th Street SW. It was dedicated in 2006. PAC2006.12

13. "Historic Mural" by Roger Cooke is a 25' by 35' wall mural painted on Union Square during the month of September 2006. PAC 2006.13

14. "Baseball Players" – (Pitcher, Catcher, Batter) by Randolph Rose, bronze sculptures depicting three young ball players. The sculptures are located in front of L.P. Frans Stadium. The dedication was held in 2012.

15. "Convergence" by Carl Billingsley is a steel sculpture. The piece is contemporary. It is located in Sally Fox Park and was dedicated in 2013

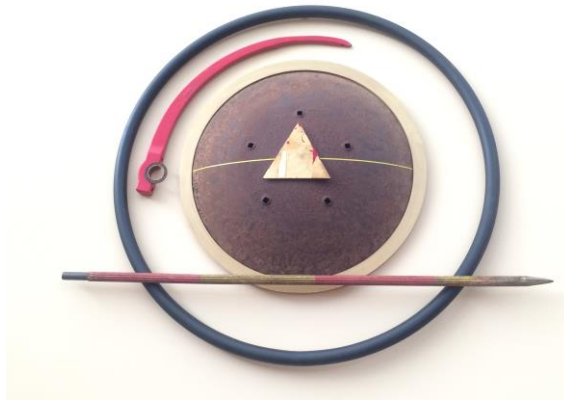

16. "Zahra's Whirled" by Mike Roig. The piece is a contemporary aluminum moving sculpture honoring the memory of Zahra Baker. It was dedicated in 2014 and is located at Kiwanis Park.

17. “Lodola” by Joel Urruty is a bronze sculpture with petura. It was dedicated in 2014 and is located in Sally Fox Park.

18. “The Art of Textiles” by Jan Craft is a contemporary wall sculpture made of composite materials highlighting the textile industry. The piece is located in the Patrick Beaver Memorial Library and was dedicated in 2014.

19. "Surveying Earth" is a contemporary composite wall sculpture by Jan Craft. The piece represents the surveying profession and is located in the Patrick Beaver Memorial Library and was dedicated in 2014.

20. Artist Pamela Smith's beautiful paintings of a Lake Hickory scene and Union Square in downtown Hickory were added to the first floor of the Patrick Beaver Memorial Library in 2014.

21. “Western NC Falls” by Kay Robb is an oil and pastel painting of one of the many cascades and waterfalls throughout western North Carolina. The painting was dedicated in 2014 and can be found along the stairwell in the Patrick Beaver Memorial Library.

22. “Catawba Creek” by Kay Robb is an oil and pastel painting of the Catawba Creek near Gastonia. The painting was added in 2014 and can be found next to the “Western NC Falls” on the stairwell in the Patrick Beaver Memorial Library.

23. "Generations" by Stefan "Steebo" Bonitz was added to Sally Fox Park in 2016. The interactive metal sculpture features a large bell.

24. "Love Makes the World Go Round" by Ray Giddens was added to Sally Fox Park in 2016. The sculpture can be seen along 1st Avenue NE.

25. "Fly Away" by Randolph Rose. This bronze sculpture was donated in 2014 by Saint Aloysius Catholic Church commemorating its 100th Anniversary. The sculpture is located in McComb Park.